2:15 PM– 3:45 PM Facilitating Change for a Department, Committee, Program, Process, or Initiative

Jonathan Hulbert, Director, Leadership and Organizational Development

Buffalo State College

Colleges and universities throughout the country are experiencing rapid changes in student demographics, enrollment trends, compliance mandates, and academic offerings. These shifts in the higher education landscape inevitably require campus constituents to change processes, organizational structures, business practices, and student support initiatives to remain competitive. Participants will examine the complex change process at a college and develop strategies to effectively facilitate a change effort that they are leading. This session is designed for any staff member, faculty member, or administrator who is or will be leading a change effort for a committee, department, program, process, or initiative. As a result of this session, participants will be able to do the following:

- Understand the complex change process within institutions of higher education using reframing.
- Identify how different stakeholders respond to change and methods to minimize resistance.
- Understand and apply strategies for facilitating change that lead to the attainment of strategic goals.
